EDITORIAL

The Advent Season

I love the season of Advent, the anticipated build up to Christmas. A time of reflection when we put aside the hustle and bustle of Christmas preparations and think about the true meaning of Christmas and of preparing ourselves for the coming of Jesus Christ as the Light of the World into our own lives.

I enjoy making an Advent Crown each Christmas, which symbolises the passage of the four weeks of Advent. The concept of the Advent wreath originated in Germany in the 16th century, but it was not until three centuries later that the modern Advent Crown took shape. The custom gained ground among Protestant churches and evolved into the smaller wreath with four candles that we know today.

Advent wreaths are circular, representing God's infinite love, and usually made from evergreen leaves representing 'The Hope of Eternal Life brought by Jesus Christ'. The wreath holds four candles, the four weeks of the Advent season, symbolising the Christian concepts of hope, peace, joy and love, with the white Christ's candle, which is lit on Christmas Eve, in the centre.

The most popular colours of the candles in the circle are three violet, and one pink, corresponding with the liturgical vestments for the Sundays of Advent. On the first Sunday of Advent the first purple candle lit is for the prophets who foretold the coming of Jesus into the world, and for John the Baptist. On the second Sunday the pink candle is lit for Mary, representing the journey Joseph and Mary made into Bethlehem. On the third Sunday a purple candle is lit for the Shepherds and the joy they shared, and on the fourth Sunday the Angel's candle is lit representing Peace.

In other Protestant churches in the UK, it is more common for Advent wreathes to have four red candles, each candle representing those looking forward to the coming of Christ. The hope of all God's people (week one), the Old Testament prophets (week two), John the Baptist (week three) and Mary the mother of Jesus (week four).

In an Orthodox Christian home, a wreath consists of six different coloured candles on a round base to celebrate the six weeks of the 40-day Advent and Christmas period. A green candle is lit first, symbolising Faith, then a blue candle for Hope, a gold candle Love, and a white candle for Peace. Then of the fifth Sunday a purple candle for is lit for Repentance followed by a red candle for Communion.

However you celebrate Advent and the Christmas season this year, I wish you all a very Happy Christmas and a Blessed New Year.

The Advent Ring

Here behold the Advent Ring, a herald of our Christmas-ing.

Four coloured candles and one white, mid greenery and berries bright.

Three candles of a sombre hue, bring to mind the things we do,

Which are not worthy of the Love, the Child will bring from God above.

Three candles, three weeks to review, how we have failed God's will to do

Three weeks for us to think, to face, the price of Love, which brought us grace

The Love seen in a manger bed, will wear that crown upon His head-

A crown of thorns, His blood will claim, as hanging there He bears our shame,

That baby born for you, for me, will die for us at Calvary.

Pink candle now its light will give, to tell us God's love will forgive

Amid the sorrow for our fall, this candle's light, shows Grace for all,

It lifts our hearts with joy and peace, and tells God's love will never cease.

Rejoice for our redemption won, by the coming of God's Son.

Four candles in the Advent Ring, their light awaits the coming King .

Then light the central candle white, to send its message to the night.

Oh, Advent Ring, light up our way,

To greet God's Son on Christmas Day

By kind permission of Jeannette Hooper

ST. CLYDAI CHURCH

Harvest Supper

We held our harvest supper at Bwlchygroes Community Hall on the 24th of October, making it a community event rather than just a church one.

Twenty-four people turned out on a terrible night – we had apologies from our clergy as Carol had family matters to attend to, and our dean Huw Davies was off sick that week.

There was plenty to eat as we planned it as a roast turkey and beef dinner for thirty and despite not quite ‘selling’ all the £10 tickets we had money left over after buying the food and paying for the hall, which combined with what the raffle raised – thanks to everyone who bought tickets and brought raffle prizes along. We raised a total of £104.00.

CORN DOLLIES AND WALKING BOOTS

A recent meeting of Bwlchygroes W.I. had an 'added bonus'. The scheduled speaker was Mrs. Aeres James who brought along a wonderful selection of her award winning corn dollies, demonstrated her great talent in crafting them, and challenged us to try our hands. This we did with varying degrees of success! Her work is absolutely amazing – see photographs.

Accompanying one of our members, as a guest, was a lady named Karen Penny. That name may ring a bell as she has been seen on our TV's recently. Her Facebook page goes under the name of 'The Penny rolls on'. Her appearance in Bwlchygroes was because she had just completed her Ceredigion walk; she was spending the night with our mutual friends Rachel and Eric in Hermon. She is in the throes of walking the borders and highest points in each of our Welsh counties, but this is only the last of several such walks – including the coast of Great Britain. She walks to raise funds in aid of Alzheimers research following the deaths of both her in-laws from dementia and now her mother's dementia, and to date has raised £130,000. Her home is on the Gower. Such an interesting, lovely lady – who has promised that next year she will come and give us an illustrated talk. If you would like to come and join us for that meeting, or any other, please contact me – number inside the front cover of this Grapevine – East Landsker Focal Minister Judy Webb.

A CHURCHWARDEN REMEMBERS

Our Visit to Egypt was as a result of booking with “Air Egypt” for our flight to East Africa. Like most national carriers Air Egypt has their capital city as a “hub” and flights either start or finish there. If we were changing planes in Cairo why not take a few days out for a quick tour.

As a beekeeper, I was aware that the Ancient Egyptians were proficient beekeepers. Two honey pots were found by Howard Carter in Tutankhamun’s tomb in the Valley of the Kings. I had previously enquired in the British Museum about these honey pots and whilst they photocopied a lot of interesting information, I was redirected to the Ashmolean Museum in Oxford. This museum is Oxford University’s Museum of Art and Archaeology. Opened in 1683, it is the oldest public museum in the UK. Within this organization is the Griffiths Institute; the guardian of Howard Carter’s notes and sketches concerning his discoveries.

There are two types of honeybees in the middle East. There is a small bee (about the size of a fly), and a big bee. It is the big bee that we would recognise as being like honeybees we see in our gardens in Wales. The little bee builds a similar honeycomb structure but in the open usually around the branch of a tree, but it has the habit of absconding, so is not much use for honey production. The ancient Egyptians kept their bees in clay pipes lying on their side.

There is a strange verse in the Bible concerning bees. God warns the people of Israel through the prophet Isaiah of the consequences of their waywardness.

“In that day, the Lord will whistle for flies from the Nile delta in Egypt and for bees from the land of Assyria.” (Isaiah 7: 18)

Was it possible to control bees by whistling; perhaps in a similar way to that of an Indian snake charmer might control his snake? There are tomb drawings of beekeepers at work but with the passage of time they are rather indistinct. If this is true, modern beekeepers have lost this technique and use smoke to calm their bees before moving the hive or taking honey from them.

Tutankhamun’s honey pots are not regal. They are ordinary honey pots that any ancient Egyptian housewife might buy. The shape of one of the Honey Pots is strange in that the base is pointed. In death the deceased were expected to go on a boat journey. The pointed base of the pot would fit in a corresponding hole in the table; so, it would not move if the boat rocked.

Because of the narrow neck of one of the containers, I confess at first, I did not believe they were honey pots. “How do you know they are honey pots? I questioned”

“I can read what is says” was the reply from the Egyptologist. The average temperature in Egypt is much higher than in the UK and so the honey would remain liquid for a lot longer. In addition to naming the contents of the pots, is the quantity, which is too indistinct to translate with any certainty and lastly the date it was bottled. “Third month of the summer season day six.” It wasn’t the EU who invented date stamping food.

Humankind has been enjoying the benefits of honey for thousands of years and it looks set to continue for some time to come.

CYFFIG

How quickly 2025 has passed. What is it they say ? “Time flies when you’re enjoying yourself”. I certainly didn’t enjoy the recent wind and rain, but what suits one person is always a hindrance to another.

We had awful floods in Whitland so we spare a thought for some of the residents of St. David’s Avenue who were flooded out.

And further afield our thoughts are with the people of Jamaica who are faced with a desperate situation.

Here’s a merry carol to encourage the Christmas Spirit, the rhythm is so easy to sing along to. I think it was written in a time when Christmas meant more than money, and greedy men blowing their neighbours to bits.

God rest ye merry, Gentlemen,
Let nothing you dismay
For Jesus Christ our Saviour
Was born upon this day,
To save our souls from mortal Sin
When we were gone astray:

Chorus

“Glad tidings of comfort and joy
Comfort and joy”

In Bethlehem in Jewry,
This blessed babe was born,
And laid within a manger,
Upon this blessed morn:
The which his mother Mary
Nothing did take in scorn:
Chorus

From God our heavenly Father
A blessed angel came,
And unto certain shepherds
Brought tidings of the same,
How that in Bethlehem was born

The Son of God by name:

Chorus

“Fear not” then said the angel,

“Let nothing you affright,

This day is born a Saviour

Of virtue, power and might:

So frequently to vanquish all

The friends of Satan quite:”

Chorus

Now to the Lord sing praises

All you within this place,

And with true love and brotherhood

Each other now embrace:

This holy tide of Christmas

All others doth deface.

Chorus

Remembrance Sunday

Despite the weather being awful - again - we had a good turnout with all the chairs put out for us occupied. The Rainbows and Girl Guides paraded their colours.

Because of the weather, Revd Carol Court turned the congregation around for the second part of the service instead of taking the service outside. St. Clydai brought the book of remembrance and some trench art usually displayed in the church on the south aisle altar for display at the rear of the hall.

The names of our Great War casualties were read out by Community Councillor Aled Johnson, who also laid the Community Council's wreath.

The Fire Brigade representative read the Second World War names before laying the wreath from West Wales Fire and Rescue.

Wreaths were also laid by the Cylch Y Frenni Circle of Churches, the Crymych Guides, Brownie's and Rainbows, the Shooters' Rights Association and the Glandwr W.I.

We would like to thank the Crymych Arms for providing refreshments after the service.

The collection was taken in WW2 vintage caps on behalf of the Royal British Legion and totalled £170.20

Thanks to Garry Tweed and team of Sied Dynion Frenni Men's Shed for refurbishing the memorial plaque.

REMEMBRANCE SUNDAYS OVER THE YEARS

I'm not long home, and dried off, and thinking about our Remembrance Sunday service in Crymych Market Hall. My mind went back to those services in my childhood, especially those attended at my Sunday School Church, Kingston-upon Thames Congregational Church, then with the Girl Guides in All Saints Church, Kingston.

Kingston is a smallish market town, and a 'canon' was fired from the roof of the Guildhall (site of the Coronation Stone of seven Anglo-Saxon kings). Being a wimp, I hated the sounds of guns, fireworks – anything noisy, and dreaded the two mega-bangs marking the start and end of the 2 minute silence. I still won't blow up balloons. The Parish Church service was impressive. We all marched from the Guildhall to the Church. Accompanied by the Sea Scouts band. The Mayor took the salute, and of course sat in the front pew in church.

As the years have passed I have marked the day in a variety of places – Churches, war memorials, and for the past 27 years, locally here, mainly in Crymych. Today despite the horrible weather the Market Hall was again full – so many faces I've come to know over the years. And it came to me that almost certainly most people there knew and were probably related to someone whose name appears on the memorial. The parts that move me most are when the names of all on the memorial are once again voiced in the village they knew so well – and then there is a chance for the names of those not included on the memorial to be spoken aloud once more. We will remember them. May they rest in peace and rise in glory.

Our Coffee Mornings!

This month's coffee mornings buzzed with laughter, chatter, and a particularly spirited round of bingo! Cups clinked, cards were dabbled with determination, and plenty of friendly competition kept everyone smiling. It was wonderful to see familiar faces and to welcome a few new ones too. These mornings continue to be one of the easiest ways to catch up with neighbours, make new friends, and enjoy a relaxed moment in the week — and we'd love to see even more of you there.

With December just around the corner, we're already warming up for a festive season full of sparkle. Preparations are underway for our holiday celebrations, and the excitement is building — think seasonal treats, cosy decorations, and we're thrilled to share that we have some fantastic live entertainment lined up! Sarah from SH Entertainment will be joining us on 1st December, bringing plenty of sparkle to kick off the season, and the one-and-only Elvis Desley will be performing at our Bring & Share on 22nd December — a treat you definitely won't want to miss!

Our upcoming coffee mornings are the perfect place to get into the spirit early, share ideas, and help us make this year's festivities the brightest yet. So grab a friend, pop in for a cuppa, and be part of a community that loves coming together.

Crymych Rugby Club was full to the brim on the evening of Friday 24th October, when the former rugby player Ifan Phillips launched his autobiography “Bachu’r Cyfle”.

His very promising career came to a sudden end after loosing his leg in a traffic accident. His dad Kevin played for Wales and he was well on his way to do the same. Now he is a Rugby commentator on S4c. Ifan wanted to pay tribute to those in the community who contributed towards his prosthetic leg. Kevin and Ifan attended Ysgol y Preseli and live at Hafod y Pwll.

On October 17th Caffi Beca was also full to the brim as Mari Grug, the journalist and TV presenter, launched her book “Dal i fod yn fi”. Born and raised in Mynachlog-ddu, Mari writes about her upbringing and of her ongoing battle with breast cancer. Mari shared her journey through the documentary ‘Un Dydd Ar y Tro’ (One Day at a Time), an emotional and honest look at life, love and resilience in the face of cancer.

News from St Gwynio's

Scaffolding is up at St Gwynio's in Llanwinio, around the entire church, to make repairs.

We are grateful to Dafydd Cox, his company and employees, and pray for their safety.

Let there be Christmas

Let there be Christmas on earth once again
Love in abundance – peace in full reign
Nations and Warlords lay swords on the ground
Come to the manger, see what we have found.

God so loved the world, he gave us his son
To heal the divisions and make us all one
Are you afraid to see the child's face?
Frightened perhaps to receive heavenly grace.

Let there be Christmas in the hearts of all men
Find the true meaning of love once again
Nations and Warlords – those who yearn fame
Look to the Christ child and honour his name.

Wise men and shepherds come to adore
Today we are able to kneel and give more –
We have heard this story of so long ago
And the meaning of Christmas we must never let go.

Yes, let there be Christmas on earth every day
When the child in the manger is welcome to stay –
To give us his blessing and peace to all men
That is the Christmas we all need again.
